Azamara cruises reviews

Allergic to all-you-can-eat buffets and hiking trips on the coast? We have an anti-vee for you. These 10 sailing experiences offer Michelin-starred dining and insider access to some of the most unsecured places in the world. Get on board. Aranui, Polynesia on board: Aranui's fleet of hybrid passenger-cargo ships gives passengers the opportunity to see one of the most beautiful cities in the world without breaking the bank—and with insider access other cruise ships don't have. While cargo ships may not have the simplistry of a luxury cruise ship, they buy it with their standout 14-day itineraries, which sail to Tahiti and the stunning Marquesas archipelago. You will depart from Papeete, Tahiti, and stop for snorkeling and shore visits to wonderful places like Rangiroa and Bora Bora. Perfect for: Travellers are eager to experience the romance, natural splendour and culture of French Polynesia without a banned price tag. Windjammer Cruise, Maine On Board: This is a great choice for guests looking for a small cruise experience that allows you to see maine coastline at its best. The Maine Windjammer Association operates a fleet of eight magnificent ships, carefully modeled on classic schooners known as windjammers, that ply maine coastline on three, four and six-day cruises. Expect to encounter wildlife such as whales, poo and eagles, and stop in charming seaside villages. Onboard meals feature northeast feasts such as lobster bakes, corn soup and roast haddock, and after dinner there's often talking and observing stars on board. Choose your own adventure when it comes to the season you're swimming: The fleet offers cruises from whale-watching in June to peak folia viewing in September. Perfect for: Romantics with a sense of adventure who want to experience sailing at its most elementary. Nour el Nil, Nile Tours On board: Many vessels cruise the mighty Nile, but few do it with the same style as the Dahabiya, a classic kind of 19th-century shallow bottom-boat custom-designed for the river and used by Turkish pashas. Nour El Nil revived the tradition with a fleet of cheerful white and red boats that hosts just 20 passengers each in sleek whitewashed cabins. Guests take to Esna, south of Luxor, for a quiet journey down a great river to Aswan, a strategic ancient port. Perfect for: History buffs and romantics are looking for an authentic Egyptian experience that doesn't skimp on luxury. Lindblad Land of the Ice Bears Expedition, Arctic Circle on board: Join your fellow passengers in Oslo, where you will board this intimate ship (only 148 guests) as it sails to Svalbard, above the Arctic Circle. Along for the ride are a number of experts, including an expedition leader, eight veteran naturalists, a National Geographic photographer and a leave specialist. The trip is all about spotting polar bears-from the comfort of your cabin, boat deck or on daily kayaking and zodiac trips. But there's also to hike on pebble beaches, witness glacier calving and spot the whale under the hypnotic light of the midnight sun. Perfect for: Nature nerds, photographers and wildlife lovers looking for bragging-worthy adventures. Gulet Cruise around Croatia, Sail Dalmatia On Board: Between the idyllic islands, standout food and wine, and postcard-perfect villages, the Dalmatian coastline is all you've heard and more. And the best way to take it all out of the water. Catch a few friends and explore the blue-green Adriatic aboard the rented gulet, a wooden sailboat whose charming lines will have heads turning in each port. Expect to stop at the dazzling islands of Vis, Hvar and Mljet, along with such cities as Dubrovnik and Split. Perfect for: Europhiles who already know the Amalfi coastline and are eager to see more of the continent's jaw-dropping scenery, with no crowds. Seadream Yacht Club, Caribbean on board: With only 56 pairs allowed and a nearly 1:1 crew/passenger ratio, these two high-end megayachts offer rare journeys through the crystal clear waters of the Caribbean Sea (and Europe, too). Among the attractions: top-rated restaurants, off-the-beaten-way shore excursions (the captain and crew will often lead passengers to hidden gems such as local seafood shacks) and onboard entertainment such as screening films under the stars. Both yachts have a seafront so guests can play water sports, and Caribbean cruises include champagne and caviar picnic on the white sand beach. Perfect for: Gourmands and hedonist who enjoy luxury cruises but are wary of megaships. Zambezi River Queen, Botswana on board: Picture a cross between an upscale safari camp and a five-star resort and you have a Zambezi Queen. Fourteen apartments have floor-to-ceiling windows that open to private decks, all the better to recognise the region's abundant wildlife (the area is home to 120,000 elephants). Offer boats take guests to a big game of spotting closer to the shores, and there is also the opportunity to visit remote villages to learn about local traditions. Best part: The solar-powered ship used water jets to prevent damage to the riverbed and removed generators to ensure the comfort of passing wildlife. Perfect for: Eco-conscious safari enthusiasts want to get out of the jeep and into the river in one of sub-Saharan Africa's most beautiful and sparsely populated landscapes. Aqua Mekong Expeditions on board: Sail the legendary Mekong through Vietnam and Cambodia on a river journey that is about as far from the heart of darkness as you can get. With one expert guide for every 10 guests, a menu created by Australian chef David Thompson and perks such as swimming pools and cabins with floor-to-ceiling windows, it's more of a floating designer hotel than a cruise ship. Shore excursions using private offerings (just those on the Mekong) take guests on trips to peaceful Buddhist temples and stilt villages, or for more heart-pumping adventures by bike and Perfect for: Mundane types that have sailed five seas and want a more unusual water adventure, complete with modern amenities. Bark Europa, Tall Ship to Antarctica On board: You might have imagined taking a cruise to the South Pole as soon as you retired, but we bet you didn't think about making your way to the classic tall ship. The mast light ship Europa was built in 1911 in Hamburg, Germany, and completely refurbished for its current incarnation, which takes intrepid passengers from Ushuaia, Argentina (the southernmost point of South America) to the white continent on an exciting 25-day adventure. Following the discovery of Antarctica, the ship sails between glaciers to the South Shetland Islands and through Chilean Patagonia, a breathtaking landscape of snowy peaks, glaciers and dramatic fjords. Perfect for: Bucket-listers who want to experience Antarctica in a unique and adrenaline-charged way. Belmond Road to Mandalay, Myanmar On board: Myanmar, formerly Burma, is finally opening up to the world, but inland travel can still be a problem. Enter Belmond's journey to Mandalay, a simplified, 82-passenger ship that sails the Ayeyarwady River in high style. There's no skipping when it comes to fancy diversions: We call gourmet alfresco restaurants, a swimming pool, cocktail bar, spa and boutique, along with entertainment that could include Burmese puppet shows, classic dance performances or insightful lectures on Myanmar's fascinating culture. Onshore, guests can visit lost-in-time rural villages, meet saffron-robed monks, and of course fill their Instagram feed with footage of the famous golden pagoda set among the lush jungle. Perfect for: Early adopters want to see the long-hidden sights of this visually and culturally rich country. -Emily Saladino More from Jetsetter: Hotel Scam You Need to Know 15 Must-Have Travel Apps This article was originally published Jetsetter.com
